"Rec News"

The hockey registration has been taken and each Minor Hockey Association is busy organizing teams, assigning coaches and planning for ice time.

This year's registration is considerably less in number than last year. There is no apparent reason for it, other than the fact that perhaps many of our young stars omitted to sign up. If there are any players who have not signed up for hockey and who want to play, please contact one of the following gentlemen and give them your name:

Bellevue — Roy Paton, 564-4826.

Blairmore — Steve Ulrich, 562-2621.

Coleman — Doug Skinner, 563-3576.

The Recreation office is making arrangements with the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association referees' division, to stage a referees' clinic within the near future. Anyone involved in last year's program can well remember the difficulties and expense that arose in importing referees to do the many games in bantam, midget and juvenile.

There is no reason for the Pass not to have enough referees on hand to handle all of the local games.

The Pass is filled with a number of men who played hockey and it was good hockey. Yet, the Pass is drastically short of active referees. We are fortunate in having the few we do have, and for their help we say thank you.

This clinic is for you. When the dates are announced plan to attend and then also plan to return the same service extended to you when you played as a minor.

Very shortly the arenas in the Pass will be opened for another season's operation. It has been decided that last year's fee structure will again be used. The fees are as follows:

Season Tickets: family, $12.00; single, $10.00. (good in any arena in the Crows Nest Pass).

Single Admissions: adults, 50c; high school, 35c; public school, 25c. (No charge for pre-school children who is accompanied by a responsible adult).

Welcome Wagon Being Organized

A Welcome Wagon is being organized by the Preventive Social Service Bureau to welcome new residents in the Crows Nest Pass district and to make them familiar with the numerous services available to them in the entire area.

The committee in charge is preparing envelope packets of information that will contain literature regarding schools, medical services, recreation facilities, literature from the Department of Social Development, Canada Manpower Center, the Crows Nest Pass Ministerial Association and the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, Crows Nest Pass Chapter.

Each town in the Crows Nest Pass have their own representative, which include:

Nettie Kinnear and Connie Michalski of Coleman, Anna Williams, Eleanor Chabillon, Rachel Coward and Dr. and Mrs. R. Varnum of Blairmore; Mr. and Mrs. William Wayman of Bellevue, and Mrs. Doug Allen of Hillcrest.

These representatives will act as a welcoming committee to new persons in their areas, and will provide the new residents with an envelope of information.

Coleman Elks Draw Nov. 14

The Coleman Elks are selling tickets for a draw for two $50.00 cash prizes, and a consolation of $10.

The proceeds from this draw are for Minor Hockey pee wees and for Minor League baseball.

The draw will take place November 14th at an Elks bingo.

Anyone wishing to purchase tickets may do so by contacting any member of the Elks at 50c each. Try your luck and help a worthy cause.

All the members who are selling tickets please turn them in by November 7th.

Former Coleman Resident Passes Away

Mrs. Ethel Burrows, a resident of Island Highway, Dashwood, died at her home Monday. Born at Springfield, Ill., Mrs. Burrows had been a resident of Dashwood for the past ten years and was 80 years of age.

A former resident of Union Bay and Buckley Bay, and of Coleman, Alta., her husband died in 1958. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. F. R. (Dora) Thompson, Dashwood, one brother, George Laird, Dashwood, two grand children and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held in the Chapel of Mt. Benson Funeral Home, Nanaimo, Friday at 1:30 P.M. J. Hooper, South Nanaimo Combined Congregation of the United Church officiating.

Interment in Nanaimo Cemetery.

Foothills Hospital Students Graduate

Students from the Crows Nest Pass graduating from the Foothills Hospital in Calgary at ceremonies held in the Alberta Jubilee Auditorium, were Miss Jacalyn L. MacQuarrie, who graduated in nursing and John W. Hvizdos, Jr., of Bellevue, who graduated in medical X-ray technology.

Out of town guests attending the exercises were Mr. and Mrs. Alister MacQuarrie, Mrs. Mary MacQuarrie, Mrs. Emily Clark, Miss Linda Biegum, of Coleman; Mrs. Anne Jenkins and Della Ann of Cranbrook, B. C.; Mrs. Della Malone and family of Fernie, B. C.; Mr. and Mrs. John Hvizdos, Jr., of Bellevue; Mrs. Maureen Hvizdos and Pat Goddard of Lethbridge.

To Appear On T.V.

Frank Kutcher, one of the three survivors of the recent mine disaster at Nakai, B. C., has agreed to appear on the "To Tell The Truth" television show in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Kutcher left from Calgary October 18th, to Toronto, and then proceeded by air-line to LaGuardia Airport in New York. The Goodson - Todman Production was taped in New York on Tuesday afternoon, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kutcher proceeded to Kennedy Airport to return to Calgary. While in New York the couple were the guests of Goodson - Todman at the Biltmore Hotel.

Junior Citizens Awards Presented (The Bassano Times)

HAVING JUST RETURNED from attending the annual Alberta Weekly Newspapers Association convention held in Edmonton on the weekend, we were most impressed with one feature. It is the giving by Calgary Power Ltd., and other utility companies, the Junior Citizens Awards to outstanding youngsters.

One would really have to lack feeling not to have a lump in one's throat as recognition is given these youngsters. Some receive it for heroism, others for outstanding community work, or assisting in their homes when tragedy or some great misfortune occurs. Not all enjoy the good health one expects in children, but have set an example to their community, neighbors and family on how to be useful citizens while suffering severe handicaps.

It seemed fitting that this year, our Lieutenant-Governor, the Honourable J. W. Grant MacEwan, made the presentations. His warmth and personal concern added much to the occasion.

One wonders if, perhaps there aren't other children in our immediate district who deserve recognition as Junior Citizens. It would be a great mistake not to have them recommended for an award. It is an honor they would treasure for the rest of their lives.

When the time comes again for recommendations, we adults should make sure that no deserving child is missed.

What better way is there of showing our appreciation to young people for their efforts to be good citizens. In their hands lies the future of Canada, and good citizenship is essential in making Canada a great nation.

Warning . . . To All Homeowners

A timely warning to all homeowners regarding the hazard of faulty venting of home heating systems has been issued by the Alberta Department of Labour. J. T. Mercer, Chief Gas Inspector for the Gas Protection Branch of the Department says each year needless accidents, some fatal, occur, and strongly recommends careful maintenance of heating equipment and regular examination of vents and chimneys.

Fumes created by burning coal, natural gas, propane gas, or other fuels, if allowed to escape and accumulate in a room can cause headaches, vomiting stupor and possibly death.

Loose mortar, dislodged bricks, soot, birds nests, and other debris are some of the common things to look for. Anything which retards or entirely obstructs the free passage of fumes to the outside atmosphere will cause fumes to escape into the home. Risks should not be taken — chimneys and all vent pipes should be examined at least twice a year, especially before the heating season. Homeowners should make sure that there are no obstructions and that all vents are securely fastened to the appliance. Bracked chimneys require special attention.

The use of high volume fans to exhaust cigarette smoke and other contaminants from the home to the outside air can create serious down-draft conditions in the appliance venting system, also causing the escape of fumes into the home. If it is felt necessary to use a portable exhaust fan, an additional door or window must be opened to permit the entrance of a sufficient quantity of air to replace that being exhausted.

Smoking Versus Fire Control

(By A. E. Bridges, Alberta Fire Commissioner)

It would appear that the smoking habit is a bug-bear to progress in fire prevention and fire control. To add to the problem smokers seem to want to be able to smoke in any class of building. There are occupancies where it is positively dangerous to smoke. Such places are, for example, flammable liquid storage or process rooms, flammable chemical storage rooms, buildings for combustible wastes or explosive storage and handling, or in areas or buildings where combustible dusts are suspended in the air. These occupancies must be posted to guarantee no smoking and the law must stipulate penalties for violation of the no smoking rule.

In buildings such as schools, hotels, theatres, hospitals, closed arenas, retail stores, warehouses, farm outbuildings and others it would be of advantage to have smoking prohibited or at least very strictly controlled. This conclusion is reached in view of the shocking record of cigarette fires in these premises over the years.

There may be a case for no restriction against smoking in dwellings, apartments, private clubs, and open areas, but again judging from the record, these are the places where loss of life from careless smoking is most common and where smoking accounts for about 50 per cent of the fires.

There is much evidence to prove that unrestricted smoking is the greatest obstacle to fire control. Smokers' carelessness in all types of buildings has proven to be a very costly business. One must wonder how long we can continue to afford it.

Meet 'McQueen', New TV Hero

In the new McQueen series, to debut on CBC-TV this fall, Ted Follows (centre) stars in the title role of a fast-talking newspaperman who helps people solve their problems through his daily column The Auctioneer. ### Let's Communicate Down Here

The miracle of clear communications between earth and bodies in space is demonstrated week after week.

Screens come alive with men walking on the moon. Across 60 million miles of space come television images of the planet Mars. Soon another Apollo craft with men aboard will head into space for the moon for further exploration of the moon's surface.

Yet all these amazing feats bring into glaring focus humanity's greatest weakness. Good communications among nations, among races, between rich and poor are still lacking.

The earthly plaque now on the moon says: "We came in peace for all mankind."

But, in too many of the world's nations, peace is a foreign word. In Vietnam, in Nigeria, in Israel, and the neighbouring Arab lands, men with hate in their hearts and weapons in their hands continue to kill each other.

The dispossessed and the poor may see space exploration as a Herculean technical achievement. But they can not share either the intense interest and enjoyment of the world's affluent people, or the real sense of achievement and national pride of most Americans.

For them, the problems of day-to-day existence are too pressing, too harsh. The vast majority of mankind lacks nutritious food and adequate shelter. There are not enough doctors to treat the ills of the people. Most men are rewarded poorly for their long hours of work - particularly in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

And the fault lies with communication among people. Men are only too eager to listen to what is being discovered on the moon or near Mars, but too often they do not wish to hear about the troubles of the family next door or about the dilemmas of other nations.

Barriers of language, of racial and economic differences, of variations in tradition and culture divide men who may live very close to each other. When astronauts speak to earth from space, all of us feel close to them despite the quarter of a million miles separating them from our planet. We communicate with them. Now it is time to begin communicating with each other down here on earth.

High Fire Cost Due To Neglect

By: A. E. BRIDGES
Alberta Fire Commissioner

"If only I had taken the necessary precautions!"

These words of regret are often heard following a fire. The results of neglect are starkly outlined in the annual fire records for Canada and for Alberta.

In Canada 130 homes are destroyed or damaged by fire each day, in many instances with loss of life. Fire strikes about 40 industrial and commercial places each day and in addition to the waste of physical resources there are incalculable costs in temporary or permanent loss of jobs and frequent business failures.

There is a tendency on the part of the public to consider most fires as accidents, as a chance visitation of bad luck, as if fires were fantastically unavoidable. But let's face up to it. Fires that start from careless smokers, overheated appliances, misuse of flammable liquids are fires caused by neglect — neglect of personal safety, neglect of personal responsibility.

Neglect gives fire a chance to start, so until we can overcome neglect we had better arrange for 24 hour supervision of all our properties and have the latest and best fire fighting facilities on ready call.

Ankylosing spondylitis, a form of arthritis, is more common among men than women.

New Savings Bonds To Double Investor's Money

OTTAWA — A new series of Canada Savings Bonds that will double the investor's money in nine years has been announced by Finance Minister E. J. Benson.

This 25th and most attractive Series to date will go on sale this month offering purchasers an average annual yield of 8 per cent to maturity on November 1, 1978.

For the fifth consecutive series, a buyer may choose to leave matured coupons uncashed and earn interest on interest.

Mr. Benson said Canada Savings Bonds continue to be a unique investment. They have become part of the fabric of personal planning by several million Canadians, and they are an essential element in the Government of Canada's financing program. They offer a wide range of individual Canadians an opportunity to contribute to national growth and development. Canadians own more than $6.6 billion of Canada Savings Bonds, or about half of that part of the fund of the Government of Canada which is held by the general public.

A purchaser who buys a $100 bond of the new Series and holds the bond and interest coupons to maturity will earn $72.50 in annual interest coupons and a further $27.50 in extra interest from three compound interest certificates bring the total amount he receives in 1978 to $200.

The regular annual coupons pay interest at a rate of 7 per cent in the first year, 8 per cent in the second and third years, and 8.25 per cent for each of the remaining six years, an average annual yield of 8 per cent to maturity.

Bonds for the new series were available on October 6 and will be dated November 1. They may be purchased up to and including November 14 at face value without payment of accrued interest.

Mr. Benson said he looks forward to record purchases through the Payroll Savings Plan, which last year permitted 682,623 employees of 5,492 companies to buy Canada Savings Bonds by the steady, practical method of regular payroll deductions. A further 1,317,410 cash purchases were made through banks and other financial intermediaries. Since Canada Savings Bonds were introduced in 1946 there have been 30,397,750 individual bond purchases totalling almost $28 billion in value.

Canada Savings Bonds of the 1969 Series will be available to a maximum of $25,000 for each purchaser. They may be bought by individual, adult or minor; estates of deceased persons; trusts established for or on behalf of individuals; religious institutions; charitable organizations and other non-profit making associations, providing that they are bona fide Canadian residents. Provisions of the 1967 and 1968 Series permitting purchases by resident corporations and businesses are being discontinued.

"This year's issue is tailored for the smaller investor," Mr. Benson said. "The Canada Savings Bond is above an investment for individuals who want a convenient savings plan. The attractive terms of the new issue have been designed to foster a growing volume of savings by Canadians reinforcing our strong policies to break the 'inflationary psychology' which has been prevalent in Canada and throughout most of the Western world."

Purchases may be made through any branch of any bank and through sales agents, including trust and loan companies and investment dealers.

Coupon bonds are available in denominations ranging from $50 to $25,000, registered as to principal.

Two different forms of fully registered bonds are available in denominations of $500, $1,000, $5,000 and $25,000. In one form, provide interest will be paid annually by cheque but the bond will not provide compound interest. In the other, the bond will offer the compound interest feature and interest will be paid only when the bond is redeemed; a holder of this form of fully registered bond may, however exchange his bonds without cost for an equal amount of coupon bonds with the appropriate complement of coupons and compound interest certificates attached.

Besides the nine regular annual interest coupons which appear on the coupon bonds, there are three Compound Interest Certificates. An investor in a $100 bond who wishes to take advantage of compounding interest may hold the first five regular annual coupons uncashed until November 1, 1974, when the first Compound Interest Certificate becomes payable for $6.50. Similarly if the remaining four regular interest coupons are held uncashed until November 1, 1978, the second Compound Interest Certificate becomes payable for $4.25. If, however he chooses not to cash in any of the regular interest coupons or Compound Interest Certificates until the bond matures in nine years, a final Compound Certificate becomes payable for $16.75.

As usual, bond holders may either report the coupons and Compound Interest Certificates as taxable income on the dates they fall due, or at their option report the coupons and certificates as income in the year they are actually cashed. Whichever option is chosen, the taxpayer is required to adopt a consistent policy of interest reporting for interest received from other issues of Canada Savings Bonds and similar securities.

Doctors Find Curative Values In Wine

"The idea of wine as a 'medicine' might not appeal to Canadian vintners," comments Food in Canada magazine, "but it is a good selling point."

Besides being sparkling, an appetite enhancer and a companion of good times, wine is also good for people, according to a doctors' survey reported in the business publication.

Carried out on hospital patients, the study found that patients who drink wine with their meals are happier than those who don't. The study showed that 46% of wine drinking patients were satisfied with visiting hours and regulations; 57% of the non drinkers were not. Virtually all of the wine drinkers thought their beds comfortable while only half of the non drinkers thought so.

85% of wine drinkers liked hospital food. Only 57% of the teetotaling patients liked their meals.

43% of wine drinkers liked their doctors only 18% of the non drinkers liked their doctor.

These and other areas of comparison showed that patients ate better, slept better and were generally more tolerant of hospital life.

Patients in the survey were only allowed two ounces of wine per day. The report didn't speculate on the effects of increasing the dosage.

F.U.A. Week November 2 - 8

The general membership drive, with Alberta Agriculture Minister Henry Ruste as Honorary Chairman will highlight FUA week to be observed from November 2nd to 8th this year.

In addition to the drive for membership the 30,000 members of the Farmers' Union of Alberta are planning a number of events to be held throughout the province, designed to focus attention on the organization's year-round activities.

Meetings to prepare for the annual convention to be held in Edmonton in December are planned for a number of points. Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in many Alberta communities are planning banquets and social evenings in co-operation with local FUA groups.

Reports from a number of points indicate that local merchants will also observe FUA Week through special promotions.

"Unity Through Co-operation" has been adopted as the slogan for 1969 FUA Week and the membership drive. The slogan reflects the organization's objective of eventually bringing all farmers into one general membership farm organization.

An all-time membership record was set in the current membership year (ending October 31st) when 30,000 of Alberta's 49,000 commercial farmers joined the Farmer's Union of Alberta.

Calgary Power proudly congratulates ALBERTA'S 1969 JUNIOR CITIZEN AWARD WINNERS

The proud young Albertans pictured above are some of the 1969 Junior Citizen Award winners. They are seen with the Honorable Fred Colborne while on a tour of the Alberta Legislature, following a presentation of awards by Lieutenant Governor Grant MacEwan. We congratulate these enterprising young people and thank Alberta's Weekly Newspaper Editors for their active participation in the Alberta Junior Citizen of the Year program, sponsored by Alberta's investor-owned electric utility companies.

The Calgary Power winners for 1969 were: Jeffrey Biggs, Gordon Spooner, Brian Hughston, Dennis Hagill, and Lorne Trotter on an individual basis; and the Okotoks Youth Organization received the group award.

Crests To Be Awarded Mule Deer Hunters

Alberta Department of Lands and Forests is awarding crests this year to successful mule deer hunters.

The crest, a colorful sown jacket patch, proclaims its wearer to be "Successful Mule Deer Hunter 1969", and is presented to any hunter who presents the cleaned lower jawbone of a mule deer at a district or regional office of the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Department.

The reason for the crest awards is to collect information on age of jaws received, wildlife biologists will analyze the findings and determine the average age and male female ratio of mule deer herds in various parts of Alberta.

Productivity of the different herds can be ascertained, along with data on the current take of mule deer. Then if necessary, hunting regulations will be adjusted so that the mule deer resource would be better managed if this becomes apparent.

To the hunter, proper game management means better hunting now and in the future.

The forests are your friends, so befriend them! DON'T BE A FIREBUG!

Harvesting Game In Africa

I will have the pleasure of working on an experimental game cropping program which involves the harvesting of animals for purposes of supplying a protein source to Africans. In some areas of Africa protein deficiency is apparently present.

Game, in the study area of 1,000 square miles, is harvested on a maximum sustained yield basis. That is, game, in excess of the carrying capacity of the range, is harvested yearly. The species harvested are: Cape Buffalo, Elephant, Wart Hog, Orihi, Uganda Kob, Jackson's Hartbeest, Waterbuck, and Reedbuck. The latter five species are antelope. Harvesting occurs throughout the year and meat is sold on the market immediately after the game is cropped.

We hope the program will show the Africans that wildlife can be a stable supplier of a protein source. If game animals are recognized as an important source of food, then their importance, and consequently their protection, will increase. We will then ensure the existence of the famous large herds of African game.

Cattle are extremely important to the Africans, both culturally and socially, and consequently take precedence over wild game. For example, even in areas where it has been shown that more pounds of wild meat per acre can be produced than that of domestic meat, cattle still take precedence over wild game. So you can see that problems encountered there are not too much different than those here.

In closing I would like to state that Albertans have a resource which can be utilized by way of enjoyment and not for the necessity of having an alternative food source, as in Africa. This very fact is indicative of our high standards of living. If we wish to continue enjoying our wildlife resource now and in the future, then people and their government representatives must recognize that the wildlife resource plays an important role in our society.

G. Armstrong
Regional Wildlife Biologist.

New Decorating Folio Free From Lumber Dealers

A unique folio of interior decorating ideas, called the Citation Paneling Selector, is now available free from lumber dealers.

Designed to help home-owners with their decorating and remodeling projects, the Citation Paneling Selector will also be valued by builders and renovating contractors because it helps to solve two major decorating problems; what paneling to use in which room, and how to match and complete new paneling with existing rugs, drapes and furnishings.

The Citation Paneling Selector - produced by Canfor Limited, national distributors of building materials - consists of an attractive size by twelve inch folder, in color, equipped with two pockets. One pocket contains high-quality reproductions of Citation pre-finished panels - each large enough to be used as though it were an actual sample of the product.

The other pocket contains a set of color-coordinated "montages", made up of various fabrics and finishing materials widely used in furnishing and decorating. Each montage is related to a Citation panel, and each is accompanied by a color illustration of a room panelled and decorated with a selection of materials from the montage.

As an aid to creating personal color schemes, having the Citation Paneling Selector is like having samples of rugs, upholstery, floor tile and paneling right in the home.

The folio also includes pointers on the simple techniques of wall paneling.

Alberta Forest Service Wins Two Awards

Hon. J. Donovan Ross, Minister of Alberta Lands and Forests, announces the Alberta Forest Service won two first-place awards at the North American Forestry Commission meeting in Ottawa, September 15 to 20.

Forest fire prevention was the theme of Alberta's winning entries in the commission's international poster contest, and in the forestry film festival. In both categories, NAFC judges had works from Canada, U.S.A. and Mexico from which to choose.

The adult category of the poster contest was won by an entry designed by J. P. Lieskovsky of the Alberta Forest Service in Edmonton. Mr. Lieskovsky's successful design is a forthright graphic comparison between living and burnt trees in which no verbal message is necessary.

The motion picture "Right to Burn", an Alberta Forest Service educational fire prevention film, continued its winning ways by capturing the top place in the educational film category of the festival.

Sponsored by the UN's Food and Agriculture Organization, the NAFC was established in 1959 to encourage discussion and co-operation on forestry problems of common concern to the member countries.

The Canadian delegation was headed by Dr. A. W. H. Newell, Federal Deputy Minister of Fisheries and Forestry, who was also chairman of the annual meeting.

How To Stay Alive At Level Crossings

Expect a train on any track, at any crossing, at anytime.

This, in short, is the answer for safe movement across highway-railway level crossings.

A recent study undertaken by a special committee of representatives of Canada Safety Council, the railway industry and the Canadian Transport Commission indicated that motor vehicle drivers are the cause of most highway-railway level crossing accidents.

The Canada Safety Council in co-operation with Canada's railways is conducting a Fall Highway-Railway educational campaign with the aim of reducing level crossing accidents.

The study revealed that drivers failed to stop, did not exercise caution or disregarded warning signals.

To stay alive at a level crossing, there are some simple rules for motorists - a mental checklist a driver must run through everytime he approaches a highway-railway level crossing.

STOP at crossings . . . 100 persons died in 1968 in vehicles that did not.

LOOK at crossings . . . some 150 vehicles slammed into the side of trains during 1968.

LISTEN at crossings . . . over 137 crossing mishaps occurred in 1968 at crossings protected by flashers and bells.

It is difficult to determine the speed of an approaching train. A motorist should never attempt to race a train to a crossing because he may be going too fast to stop in time.

Motorists should always look in both directions after a train has passed. This visual check will prevent an accident involving a train coming from the opposite direction. In approaching a highway-railway level crossing motorists should never stop too close to the tracks.

During the winter months, motorists should never drive with windows completely closed, heater on, radio playing and front windows frosted or dirty because they run the risk of not seeing or hearing an oncoming train. Drivers must be careful not to obstruct their view. This especially applies to shoppers returning home with the front seat stacked high with bags, boxes, children or animals.

A motorist who is familiar with a highway-railway level crossing passing over it several times a week, should always use caution when approaching the crossing. A majority of highway-railway level crossing accidents occur within a 25-mile radius of the motorists home.

Expect a train on any track, at any crossing, at anytime.

The ages of scaled fish, as of trees, can be determined by the number of rings.
